HERTLING CALLED TO FIELD BY KAISER

Must Explain War Speech; Von Kuehlmann Has Embittered Many Factions in Germany

By International News Service.

London, June 28.—Count Von Hertling, German Chancellor, whose recent speech on war aims in the Reichstag may bring about his downfall, leaves Berlin today for German Great Headquarters for an important conference, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen, quoting the Vossiche Zeitung of Berlin, as authority.

The Kaiserin has become one of the chief opponents of Von Kuehlmann, says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Express. He adds:

"And it is said in Germany that any one—minister official or otherwise—who is disliked by the Kaiserin is quickly dismissed by the Kaiser. Consequently, whatever may happen, it is safe to say that Von Kuehlmann had better begin to pack up."

PARTIES IN BUCHAREST.

The scandalous conduct of Von Kuehlmann, with chorus girls, while in Bucharest conducting peace negotiations with the Rumanian government is said to be the basis of the Kaiserin's dislike. It is also the basis of a suit brought by the government against the Deutsche Zeitung for publishing an account of the Bucharest "parties."

The case will be heard shortly and it is probable that the newspaper, which is Pan-German, will try to turn the trial into a political sensation. It is reported that it will go the extent of seeking to have several chauffeurs come from Bucharest to Berlin to tell the judge where they

COLD STORAGE PLANTS IN FRANCE FOR U. S. ARMY

Washington, June 28. Fresh meat for the American expeditionary forces will be insured through the erection of refrigeration and ice-making plants in France, the War Department announced today. The erection of the new plants will enable the army to place in cold storage sufficient meat and other perishables in France to safeguard against any shortage. Five plants, 800 feet long and 300 feet wide, are now under construction.

Garrisons at Two Cities Mutiny; Violent Demonstrations Spread

London, June 28.—As a sequel to violent demonstrations in numerous cities of Austria and Hungary, the garrisons of Gyor and Pecs, near Budapest, have revolted, according to advices received here today.

Two thousand soldiers who participated in the mutiny have been court-martialed and condemned to death, the dispatch adds.

Disaffection in the army is becoming marked throughout the dual monarchy. The demonstrations by the populace of many of the cities of Austria amount virtually to a revolutionary movement.

All Budapest Work Stopped by Strike in Hunger Protest

Amsterdam, June 28.—All work in Budapest has been stopped by a general strike, it was announced in the Hungarian Parliament by the Premier, according to advices received here today.

Slav Race Must Be Freed From German Rule, Says Lansing

By International News Service.

Washington, June 28.—The United States takes the position that all branches of the Slav race should be entirely freed from German and Austrian rule. This was made plain by Secretary of State Lansing in the following statement:

"Since the issuance by this government, on May 29, of the statement regarding the nationalist aspirations for the freedom of the Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs, German and Austrian officials and sympathizers have sought to misinterpret and distort its manifest interpretation.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding concerning the meaning of the statement, the Secretary of State today has further announced the position of the United States government to be that all branches of the Slav race should be completely freed from German and Austrian rule."

EACH STAMP THAT YOU BUY IS A KICK AT THE KAISER

Have you taken the War Stamp Pledge?

If not, do so before the day is done.

For today is WAR SAVINGS STAMP DAY, so appointed by proclamation of President Wilson.

The President has asked that every person in this country be pledged to buy War Savings Stamps by today.

A Million-Pledge Drive is being conducted in Massachusetts, under the energetic direction of Robert F. Herrick, director for Massachusetts, National War Savings Committee.

The Bay State enrollment has passed the three-quarter mark. Now for a final charge "over the top."

There are exercises on Boston Common today to boom War Stamp pledges, with an afternoon parade.

Children all over the country are enthusiastic War Stamp pledgers. Witness the way they are hustling to earn money to buy "War Savies," as they tell in their letters in the Boston AMERICAN'S War Stamp Letter Contest.

We have bought Liberty Bonds by the billion. But let us not neglect the thrifty War Savings Stamps—the "little Kaiser-killers."

ENGLAND TO FORWARD PACKAGES TO U. S. BOYS

London, June 28.—G. H. Putnam announces the formation of a committee to forward home bundles to the American soldiers in the trenches. Eminent American-English men and women here, in addition to forwarding good cheer, will carry out as far as possible any orders from America, in view of the difficulty in sending packages direct from America to France.

BRITISH LABOR FOR HOME RULE FOR IRELAND

By International News Service.

London, June 28.—A resolution was adopted by the Labor Party today, asking that women be made eligible to election to Parliament and other public bodies.

Another resolution (proposed by the Socialists) called upon the government to provide work at union wages or else give full maintenance to unemployed and dependants.

Still another resolution was passed demanding that the government find work for women who are replaced by men after the war and that they get equal pay.

The Laborites went on record also in favor of home rule for Ireland and abolition of the House of Lords.

WHOLE HUN REGIMENTS WIPED OUT AT SOISSONS

London, June 28.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Express has obtained an interview with a neutral journalist who was the guest of the German General Staff during the recent fighting around Soissons, where the scenes were described as "more terrible than anything else witnessed in the war."

"The German losses were indescribable," the journalist said. "Whole regiments were wiped out in no time. I saw masses of corpses tied in bundles with wire to be burned. The Germans could not spare enough men to dig graves."

REPORT NICHOLAS PROCLAIMED AS EMPEROR

The Russian Bolsheviki, who succeeded the Kerensky regime, have themselves been overthrown.

Russia has gone back to royal rule and the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaevitch, uncle of the ex-Czar, and one of the greatest generals the Slav race has produced, has been elected Emperor.

Nickoklai Lenine and Leon Trotzky, the Bolsheviki Premier and Foreign Minister, respectively, have fled.

Generals Korniloff and Kaledines, also German forces, are reported to have occupied Moscow, to which the Bolsheviki government was transferred some months ago from Petrograd.

These startling developments were reported today in a wireless dispatch from Stockholm, via London.

The assassination of former Czar Nicholas has been confirmed officially in a telegram from the Bolshevik Foreign Secretary to Darmstadt, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen to London today.

Another Copenhagen dispatch carries a report from a German source that counter-revolutionists in Russia have captured not only Irkutsk, but also Haborowsk and Blagowsthenk. The victory of the Czecho-Slovak forces was aided by the fact that [illegible] soldiers killed their own officers, then voluntarily surrendered.

The Stockholm cablegram reporting the overthrow of the Bolshevik government and the election of the Grand Duke Nicholas as Emperor, indicated that the Bolsheviki officials had fled to "Murman." There is no such Russian city registered in Lippincott's Geographical Gazetteer, although there is a Russian city called Murom. It is one of the oldest towns in the republic, lying on the Oka River, seventy miles southeast of Vladimir.

The Bolsheviki came into control in Russia after the Kerensky regime was overthrown. In December, 1917, an armistice was entered into on the eastern front, the draft being signed at Brest-Litovsk on the fifteenth. Subsequently a treaty of peace was signed.

The German newspaper Deutsche Tages Zeitung credits the rumor in Russian circles that "the overthrow of the Bolshevik regime in Russia is imminent," said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch this afternoon.

Kerensky, it was said, is the man of the future.

The Exchange Telegraph prints a note on the foot of its story stating

GERMAN WIRELESS VERSION.

Washington dispatches today said that German wireless dispatches from Nauen, which had been picked up and were made public through the State Department, dealt with the reported assassination of the former Czar.

The first dispatch stated that the reports of the assassination were becoming "more and more widespread." A second said that advices from Ukrainian sources explained that the assassination was by members of the Red Guard "as the result of a personal quarrel." Another said that it was reported teh family of the deposed Czar had been removed from Perus to Ekaterinburg.

These messages were made public at Washington without comment on their reliability or non-reliability.

Washington Is Puzzled at Report, but Realizes Anything Is Possible Now

By International News Service.

Washington, June 28.—State Department officials were frankly interested in the report from Stockholm today that the Bolsevik regime had been overthrown and that Nicholas Nicholaevitch had been proclaimed Emperor. There was no way of verifying the report here, but officials took the stand that because of the chaotic conditions in Russia "anything was likely to happen." They were not at all inclined to belittle the possibility that the regime of Trotzky and Lenine had been terminated as abruptly as it had arisen.

Nicholaevitch is the former Grand Duke and was commander of the Russian army prior to the overthrow of the Romanoffs. At last reports he had been imprisoned by the Bolsheviki at Odessa.

The report that General Kornilof and General Kaledines had occupied Moscow proved puzzling. It was generally accepted that General Kornilof had been slain by his own troops, dispatches having told of how the enraged men had dragged his body over railway tracks. The reference to German troops also having occupied Moscow lends officials here to believe, if the report of the overthrow of the Bolshevik government is true, that it will be found that Germany was in some way a factor. They refused to speculate on what effect these developments would have on the attitude of America and Japan toward Russia.

Grand Duke Nicholas is an uncle of the former Czar and was in command of all the Russian armies at the outbreak of the war. Later he was sent to command the armies in the Caucasus, and when the Russian revolution broke out he retired to his Crimean estate to live in seclusion. Early in June, 1917, he was reported to have been arrested on account of royalist activities.

New Red Cross Chief

Washington, June 28.—Howard W. Fenton, a Chicago banker, has been appointed manager of the Central Division of the American Red Cross, with headquarters in Chicago. It was announced tonight by Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross war council.

Grand Duke Nicholas, "Strong Man" of Russia, Once Saved Throne

UNCLE OF EX-CZAR LED ARMIES IN VICTORIOUS SWEEP THROUGH EAST PRUSSIA.

Grand Duke Nicholas, "Russia's strong man," said to have been declared Czar, had been reported assassinated by the Bolsheviki near the Black Sea. Local Russians believe, however, that he has been in hiding, awaiting the downfall of the Bolshevik power.

As the leading figure during that part of the war when Russia offered staunch resistance to her enemies, Grand Duke Nicholas would be the most likely choice of an anti-Bolshevik party, according to Russians in Boston.

Although when war broke out Czar Nicholas aspired to lead his troops in person, the Grand Duke took the reins of authority into his own hands. He was powerful enough to have undisputed control over the Cabinet Council of the empire. It is said that his figure loomed so near the throne of the "Little Father" that the Dowager Empress fled to seclusion on Jelajin Island. The Dowager had been an open enemy of the Grand Duke.

The rise of the Grand Duke to power, however, was a slow one. His towering form, his handsome physique and his military attainments were the very things which served to make his advancement slow. For his cousin, Alexander III., regarded this finely-built leader of men as a potential rival of his own three sons. It was decreed that the activities of the Grand Duke be confined to the cavalry. His answer to this was to produce the finest body of cavalry in Europe.

During the Russo-Japanese war the troops hoped in vain that the Grand Duke would be made their commander-in-chief. When revolution was threatened in Petrograd immediately after the war began, however, it was to the Grand Duke Nicholas that the reigning family looked for succor. He restored order. He was one of the few men in Russia who dared to go about the streets unprotected, while ordering long flies of Russians to Siberia and exile.

Grand Duke Nicholas is now sixty-two years old. He was born of a German mother, with a Russian father. Physically he is said to resemble his mother, who was his youthful ideal. His father he is said to have hated, although he has several of the traits of that iron-handed field marshal of Alexander.

In private life Grand Duke Nicholas has shown the same skill as a tactician, and the same iron will which he has exhibited in his public life. In fighting the scandals with which the court teemed against him, he was badly handicapped by the fact that he was poor. His father had left him nothing but debts.

Through a morganatic marriage with the widow of a millionaire merchant, he solved, at her death, the money question. Her fortune came to him. He was then free to fulfill his ambition of years, to marry the Princess Anastasia of Montenegro, then wife of the Duke of Leuchtenberg.

They bided their time until the Czar permitted the Princess to secure a divorce. When the marriage took place the Duchess was forty years old. She was, however, possessed of oriental beauty, and a love of magnificent costumes which endeared her to the Russian heart.

The plans he had so carefully laid, nor the part he expected his wife to play in them, did not prevent Nicholas from building a mansion for a dancer of the royal ballet directly across the street from the dural palace.

Although his commanding form made him a hero among the Russian people, it was not until his troops swept through East Prussia early in the war that he at last attained a place of the highest importance in the empire. Military experts claim that it was this victorious advance through east Prussia of the Grand Duke's army which saved Paris in 1914.

Later the same year, when Warsaw seemed doomed to fall before the Germans, he threw an army into the breach and checked the enemy on the Baura line. During the time victory attended the Russian armies the Grand Duke was the idol of Russia.

He was shot by one of his generals in an argument over tactics. Later he took charge of the Eastern front. When the revolution broke out he retired to his estate in the Crimea, whence he supported the revolution. He urged the people to obey their lawful chiefs, and to defend the country fro mits enemies. From this time on his whereabouts was much of a mystery.

He was once reported under arrest at Tiflis. Other reports had him in command in the Caucasus, in Crimea, and assassinated by the Bolsheviki.

In many quarters he has been regarded as the only possible savior of Russia.

Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaevitch, uncle of the assassinated Czar, now reported elected to the Musco vite throne.

VON KUEHLMANN HAS ANGERED THE EMPRESS

carried Von Kuehlmann in their cars, and the identity of persons with him.

"Foreign Secretary Kuehlmann is impossible," has been the watchword at Berlin for the past twenty-four hours, says an Amsterdam dispatch to the Express today. That the Foreign Secretary will go by the board soon seems obvious.

KRUPP ORGAN BITTER.

The Pan-Germans are indulging in vile and vulgar abuse. The Neuste Naichrichten of Berlin, a Krupp organ, says:

"If Von Kuehlmann had delivered a speech in France of the same nature he did in Berlin he would have been arrested for 'defeatism,' like Caillaux."

The Vorwaerts, in summing up the Pan-German situation, hits the nail on the head by saying:

"Von Kuehlmann's position is like that of Premier Premier Von Bethmann-Hollweg last year. He has committed the same mistakes. Instead of opposing the Pan-Germans with energy, thus securing the people's sympathy as the safest prop, he tries to appease his opponents by the use of conciliatory words, losing his last supporters."

AN EMPTY VICTORY FORESEEN.

A sensation was caused in Berlin by the Reichstag speech of the democratic leader, Herr Naumann, in which he asked the government to tell the people just where they stood.

"What is the use of keeping on fighting if victory brings us out of the contest half dead," he demanded.

Advices state that "every one in Germany feels that something must be done to rescue the military, diplomatic and political muddle."

Rumors are accumulating that Austria-Hungary will soon make an indirect peace offer through neutral channels, and the signs that Germany cannot stand the struggle much longer are growing constantly. The Von Kuehlmann episode was only one of the thousand that have occurred.

KERENSKY LEAVING LONDON FOR PARIS

London, June 28.—Alexander Kerensky, former premier of Russia, is leaving for Paris this afternoon, it is stated.

It was previously announced that Mr. Kerensky would go to the United States from France.

Today's War Summary

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

Political developments again overshadowed the military situation today as the operations on the various battle fronts continue to be conned to enterprises of a minor character.

Of great importance, if true, was the rumor coming out of Stockholm that the Bolshevik regime in Russia had been overthrown and that Lenine and Trotzky, the head and front of the Bolshevik movement, had fled from Moscow. It must be accepted with the utmost reserve, however.

The radiogram received in London from Stockholm, quoting a Swedish newspaper, stated that former Grand Duke Nicholas, one time commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, had been "elected" emperor.

Nicholas is a thorough autocrat and has been in seclusion for some time, although there have been rumors that he was engaged in counter revolutionary activities.

Unrest in Austria-Hungary is growing and Budapest has been completely tied up by a general strike. The socialist workmen in the Hungarian capital have formed an organization and adoptd a resolution demanding an immediate peace.

The political turmoil in Germany aroused by the foreign secretary's speeches and the chancellor's effort to "interpret" them has led to the latter being called to German great headquarters by the Kaiser.

This is a possibility thaet both Von Kuehlmann, the foreign secretary, and Von Hertling, the chancellor, may be forced from office as a result of the agitations.

CALL ON COUNCILLORS FOR AID IN FATAL SHOOTING

Members of the Governor's Council, touring with the State Fish and Game Commission through North Wilbraham yesterday, saw two women run into the yard of the home of Henry D. Green, waving their hands. The Councillors returned the salutation, believing it only a greeting to the party. The women were, in fact, signalling for aid, for Mr. Green had just been shot and killed, it was charged, by Willard Ellis of North Wilbraham.

Ellis pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder when arraigned in court at Palmer today. He was held without bail for trial July 8.

RIVAL CREWS READY FOR GREAT NAVY DAY RACES ON THE CHARLES

BLUE JACKETS FROM ALL ALONG THE COAST TO BE ON DECK TOMORROW

The various stations along the coast from Chatham to Maine are ready for Navy Day on the Charles River Basin tomorrow.

The final arrangements are now being made to bring to Boston crews representing stations as far away as Chatham on the Massachusetts coast and Kittery on the Maine coast. The Portsmouth Navy Yard is really in Kittery.

The crews from these various stations have sent word to Naval Headquarters that they are all ready for the contests, and the yeomen have reserved special places on their blouses where they believe the medals will look best.

The Portsmouth girls' crew, which is to take part in the wherryboat race for yeogirls, is composed of sturdy New Hampshire girls for the most part, and they will be satisfied with nothing less than first place.

There are so many entries for the wherryboat races that it will have to be run in two heats with the finals at the end of the program.

BIG CHEERING SQUAD.

Bumkin Island expects to win if force of lungs and numbers will do it. They will send 800 yeomen to form a cheering and singing section, and they will roar out a special song composed for the occasion by the commandant of the island, with special reference to what their crew is going to do to its opponents.

From modest Chatham comes word that the boys from that station are not coming ninety-two miles to Boston to get beaten. Not so. They are coming to win.

Word has been received from Provincetown, Hingham, Wakefield, Deer Island, Commonwealth Pier, the Cadet School and the Naval Radio School that they will be strongly represented.

While neither Secretary Josephus Daniels or Assistant Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt will be able to witness the sports, the list of guests is formidable looking. It includes the Governors of two States, the Lieutenant-Governor of another, and two Mayors.

Among those who will be guests of Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood aboard a naval barge will be Governor Milliken of Maine, Governor Henry B. Keyes of New Hampshire, Lieutenant-Governor Calvin Coolidge, Mayor Peters and Mayor Quinn of Cambridge.

CARDINAL INVITED.

Cardinal O'Connell has also been invited to attend, but it is not definitely known whether he will be present.

The Navy Day sports are expected to eclipse anything of their kind ever seen in Boston. There are more entries for the swimming and diving events that have ever been known at any aquatic games held in Boston, and scores of crews composed of yeomen and yeogirls will take part in the rowing races.

There are special events on the program also. One is a special race between cutters from the Avalon School and Bumkin Island crew for a distance of one mile and seven-eighths.

No prize is offered for this race, it is just a matter of rivalry between the two crews.

For the other events 140 medals and two handsome cups are offered by the Boston AMERICAN.

The Monte Christo sack dive in which Chief Boatswain's Mate Elliot Church will appear will furnish some thrills for the big crowd.

The sailing race will cover a triangular course of four miles, beginning and finishing on the Cambridge side of the basin in front of the Technology buildings.

That is the chief advantage that the people will have who stand on that side of the basin, for the other events will start near the Boston side, beginning just north of the bridge.

Except for the half mile swim, which will be along the course used in the rowing events, the swimming and diving events will be held from a float near the Union Boathouse.

War Savings Day Being Observed Generally Throughout the State

Today is National War-Savings Day proclaimed by the President with an appeal to every man, woman and child to pledge themselves on or before June 28th to save constantly and as an evidence of their loyalty to invest all they can save in War-Saving Stamps.

With a number of pledge signers throughout the State well along towards the $50,000 mark, State Director Robert F. Herrick issued a call to the entire population of the State to be sure not already pledged to commit themselves to a systematic purchase of War-Savings Stamps.

Reports from the different cities and towns to State headquarters on the next to the last day of the drive were scattering.

In Suffolk County Hugh Bancroft, the chairman for Boston, and Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall, the woman chairman, reported that up to Wednesday night 125,461 pledges had been secured.

In Worcester County a total of 32,200 was reported. Middlesex reported about 68 per cent. of its quota, respectively, by 15 and 15 per cent.

Mrs. A. C. Wise, woman major for Hingham, reported yesterday nearly $35,000 worth of pledges, the average being five stamps to a pledge. North Adams reported nearly 9,000 stamps against a quota of 6,000. Lexington had 16,000 pledges against a quota of 1,500, totalling $45,000, which is over $7 per capita for the town. Southampton reported 110 per cent. over.

Middleboro reported 2,600 pledges against a quota of 2,400, with returns from the factories still to be made.

Manchester was 20 per cent. over its quota; Westwood, 12 per cent. over; Pembroke, 4 per cent. over.

Boy Saving for War Stamp Campaign Is Robbed by Man in Street

In the mail, addressed to the War Stamp Editor, came a large envelope from the William E. Endicott School of Dorchester. In the envelope were seven quite remarkable letters sent in competition for the War Stamp letter prizes offered by the AMERICAN. They were from scholars in the fifth grade, all of ten years or less.

In the first place, the War Stamp Editor, in opening the envelope was struck by the uncommonly good handwriting—really remarkable for five children of ten and under—and while there are no prizes for handwriting, the War Stamp Editor cannot refrain from complimenting Esther Barry, of No. 28 Glenway street; Eugenie Clifford, of No. 25 Calder street; Jacob Gottlieb, of No. 11 Canterbury street; Israel Auerbach, of No. 146 Elmo street; Etta Cooper, of No. 7 Brenton street; Naomi Andrews, of No. 64 Greenwood street, and Edith Newman, of No. 142 Lorne street, on the clearness and neatness of their letters. And there should be a word of tribute to their teacher, M. E. Murray.

FOUND MONEY GONE.

The letters told how money was earned to buy War Saving Stamps—all except Jacob's letter. Jacob, it seems, had saved 15 pennies (though he doesn't state how he saved them) when, as he writes, "a man came over to me and asked for change. I gave him ten pennies and he gave me a dime. He, seeing I had five more pennies, asked if I'd change a nickel. After a while I took a little stroll. My hands felt chilly and I put them in my pocket expecting to feel the money. To my surprise the money was lost!"

This was hard luck for Jacob, but his classmates in school were more fortunate. Israel Auerbach earned money and bought stamps by beating carpets. Esther Barry by helping her father in the store, Eugene Caffes by running errands, Etta Cooper by helping her mother, Naomi Andrews by weeding the garden and keeping a hennery, and Edith Newman by practicing double time on the piano.

It is impossible to print more than a very small per cent. of the letters received by the War Stamp Editor. They are very numerous and show beyond doubt that the school children are thoroughly awake to the benefits of earning money to buy stamps with Uncle Sam.

Here are a few of the letters, however:

NATHALIE COTTER, Ten Years—I am writing to tell you that I am ten years old and am running a small milk route. I have six customers and earn fifty cents a week. My father used to pay a boy a dollar to do the work, so I am helping him as well as myself to save.

It is not easy to get up at 6 o'clock, but I think of my two dear brothers, volunteers, doing their bit, so I try cheerfully to do mine.

No. 76 Summer street, Haverhill; School Street School; indorsed by Mary A. Murphy, teacher.

RALPH UBERT EMERY, Eight Years—I live outside the city. I earned my money for Thrift Stamps by digging dandelions and selling them. I find bottles, rags and rubbers to sell. I have earned one War Stamp and have three on the second. I am eight years old and in the fourth grade.

No. 53 Van Buren street, Riverside, Haverhill; Crowell School, grade 4; indorsed by Fannie L. Hayes, principal.

CATHERINE LAIRD, Ten Years—I think I am doing my bit for my country. I help mother in the home. I do errands for her and father and sometimes for my grandfather. I am raising lettuce and selling it to my mother and my aunt. My playmates and I have started a club called the Thrifty Workers. We sew and knit and will soon hold a fair to sell what we have made. All the money I can get I will use to buy Thrift Stamps. I have fourteen stamps now and will soon have more. I am ten years old.

No. 27 Ashland street, West Lynn; Burrill School, grade 5; indorsed by E. M. Stearns, teacher.

FRANCES HALL DEWART, Twelve Years—There is one way every man, woman and child can help win this war. That is by buying Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps. I am trying to do this by earning and saving my money. These are some of the ways: I receive money for War Savings Stamps. I take my little sister out during the week and earn twenty-five cents an hour; I read to my youngest brother and get ten cents an hour; I also run errands and save my allowance of fifty cents a week.

Miss May's School, Boston; home address, The Phillips Inn, Andover. Certified by William N. Dewart, rector of the Old North, Boston.

20,000 HUNS DROWNED IN PIAVE

Extent of Enormous Losses in Italian Rout Now Being Revealed

Twenty thousand Austrian troops perished by drowning in the Piave River when the Hun offensive in Italy collapsed, according to Austrian advices via Rome.

The total Austrian casualties in this gigantic Teuton fiasco have been placed at more than 200,000.

The Piave, literally rising to the emergency as though inspired by loyalty to Italy, carried away Austrian footbridges on its swollen flood so that thousands of Huns were drowned in the frantic disordered retreat to the eastward bank of the stream.

The Austrian debacle not only stands as one of the most miserable failures in military history, but it may mark a turning point in the entire World War.

The mere physical effects have been tremendous in the loss to the Teutons in men, guns, munitions and equipment.

100 PER CENT. FAILURE.

The psychological effect—the uplifting of the Italian arms and the crushing defeat of the burdened Austrians, is hardly to be measured in words.

One of the most remarkable features of this Hun disaster has been the paucity of detailed news concerning events from day to day.

Considering the magnitude of the Austrian effort and the enormous stake for which the great military game was being played, the news dispatches from day to day have been mere bulletins, compared with the fulsome and localized accounts of hour-to-hour developments in the German drives in France.

But, now that the Austrians have been routed and the disjointed accounts of actions may be collated, it is possible to get a comprehensive view at last of the whole Austrian scheme and its hundred per cent. failure.

The offensive was "relished on" Austria, as the expression goes, by the German high command.

Emperor Charles, who is nothing less than the Kaiser's vassal now, and his generals, dominated by the German General Staff, gathered every man and gun they could scrape together and launched their mile offensive from the Alps down to the Adriatic.

The plan was truly German in its simplicity. The southern army was to cross the Piave and grind its way westward across the Venetian plain. It was to take Venice, or at least to encircle that city on the north, north and east and thus the "Queen of the Adriatic" was helpless between sea and land.

DOUBLE SWEEP PLANNED.

The northern army, co-operating with the southern one, was to sweep down from the mountains from west of the Asiago plateau to where the battle line crossed the Piave east of Mount Grappa.

The big guns on the Brenta valley the northern army was scheduled to keep abreast of the river forces until the Hun line reached to the railroad junctions of Castelfranco and Vincenza and even to storied Padua.

Eastward of Vincenza lies Verona. Inevitably associated in the minds of English-speaking people with Shakespearian writings. With a battle line cutting across the Venetian plain from the Piave to Verona, the Italians would be compelled, as the German strategists figured, to accept a drive from the north.

How different the outcome of these plans hoped for. Every gun in the mountain army from the north was met and matched and out-matched by the fighting spirit under Diaz, the great Italian general.

LOSSES IN THE THOUSANDS.

Worse was the fate of the southern army, which gained holdings on the western bank of the river, only to be thrust back with losses mounting by thousands daily.

The layout of the entire battle-front, whether or not the Germans took this into consideration, favored the Italians against the invaders. The Huns were on the outside of the circle. The Italians were on the inner side, with shorter communications, infinitely better ones and plenty of good roads.

The Austrian rout was so complete at many points that the advancing Italians were able to capture field pieces in good working condition. The fugitive Austrian artillerymen did not have time even to put their own guns out of commission.

Austrian pontoon bridges were wrecked by wholesale. The greater part of the Austrian prisoners fell into a most abject condition, mud-covered, ragged, hungry and shattered in spirit.

Dark Clothes Universal Style in France Now, Says Miss Sturgis

The fifth and last instalment of the vivid account of war work in France, given by Miss Mabel Sturgis of Beacon street and Manchester-by-the-Sea to Marie Dunbar, is presented by the AMERICAN today. It completes her story of the relief work being carried out for the French refugees, among whom Miss Sturgis has worked for a year and a half with the refugee department of the Red Cross Civil Affairs Bureau. Previous instalments told how the refugees arrive at Evain, France; receive mail there, and are distributed for housing. How bravely the French endure air raids and the other discomforts and dangers of war were described, and the necessity of sympathy in dealing with the unfortunate refugees shown.

By MARIE DUNBAR.

"Many of the pastry shops in France have closed since the war," Miss Sturgis told the writer in concluding her interview. "There are numerous attractive little tea shops in Paris and all through France. But you can not go into one of these shops and have cake with your tea. If you want cake you must buy it and eat it at home or some other place than in the tea shop.

"The bread is all kept at a definite price. It is easy for the French government to regulate the bread and pastry making, as very few French people bake bread or make pastry at home. It is all done in the bakery shops.

"The refugees and poor people in Paris are given a certain amount of potatoes and coal each month. During the Winter, coal cards are as much in evidence as the bread and sugar cards.

"Although it seemed to me this Spring when I left France that the French women were wearing clothes of a little brighter hue than usual during war times, the dressmakers said that the few new clothes that they were making were of very quiet colors and plain, conservative styles. Practically all the French women dress very quietly now and are economizing on their clothes. Dark colors are universally worn in France.

DRESS SUITS ELIMINATED.

"A dress suit for the men is no longer permitted in the evening. You never see a man at the theatre in a dress suit. He is not allowed to enter the theatre if he has one on.

"The French people are doing very little entertainment. The places of amusement, especially the theatres, are encouraged to keep open so that the soldiers on furlough may enjoy themselves and for awhile at least forget the horrors at the front.

"Every one is too busy working to think of entertaining very much. They are showing wonderful war films in France. When the refugees arrive the members of the family at the front are usually notified and a short furlough is given them. This is a very happy time for both the 're-patries' and the soldiers. In many cases they do not see each other for two years or more."

The American soldier in France was what I asked Miss Sturgis of next.

"They are delighted to hear the English tongue," said Miss Sturgis. "They bombard the American women with questions about things 'over here.' One of my friends told me a typical little story of what really happened on the streets one day.

MUSIC TO THE EAR.

"I was talking to another American woman on the street," said my friend. "We noticed two American soldiers, or Yanks, listening; they had a look of genuine pleasure on their face. One of the boys finally turned to the other khaki-clad lad and said: 'Gee, ain't that music?' To hear an American woman's voice sounded more like home to these boys than anything in France."

Homer Folks, formerly head of the State Charity Aid in New York, heads the Bureau of Civil Affairs in France. Edward T. Devine, formerly head of the School of Philanthropy in New York, and who was on the faculty at the Columbia University, heads the department of refugees. Mr. Devine was one of the leading workers at the earthquake and fire in San Francisco and at the Dayton disaster.

Miss Sturgis was first stationed in Paris, then later she worked for the Red Cross in different parts of France, and just before her return she was at Vowne.

WILLING TO TAKE RISKS.

"Don't you think that the submarine menace will keep American workers from going across?" I asked.

"By no means," said Miss Sturgis, who returned to America just as the submarines started their activities. "The need for these workers is so great and they can accomplish so much that I am sure that they will risk the dangers to give aid to the French.

"There are practically no pleasure cars in France. Every factory or plant that has been manufacturing pleasure cars is now turned into a munitions factory or is manufacturing trucks and heavy cars to be used on the front. Then, too, France is conserving gasoline on the pleasure cars and sending it to the front.

"There are a limited number of taxicabs, but cars for private use are seen practically nowhere. Every one uses the cars or taxis. Even garages present a very dismal appearance or are used for other purposes. The day of the pleasure automobile is past in France for the present and it is considered a utility which must be conserved for the fighters at the front."

(THE END.)

TRUST CHARGES MADE AGAINST BOSTON MEN

Endeavor to Oust Providence Fertilizer Manufacturer Is Alleged

Providence, June 28.—Boston representatives of a fertilizer combination are charged with threatening the head of a local fertilizer plant as a result of his refusal to "sell-out" and abandon going business in Massachusetts. The names of the Boston men are said to have been given to the Federal authorities and unusual disclosures are looked for.

According to a reliable source, the threatened man was a witness at Boston recently during a Federal investigation and is said to have divulged the inner workings of the alleged trust. Since testifying it is charged that secret workers have visited this city and have threatened to put the independent rendering company out of business.

A man who requests his name be withheld for the present says:

"The secret representative of one branch of the trust visited this city and tried to effect a compromise with the head of a local rendering company with large business around Boston. Unable to frighten the man who refused to be dictated to, another Boston man paid a visit to this city and threatened disastrous results unless the independent man followed his advice. Now, the local man gave valuable testimony at a Federal investigation at Boston recently and is a fighter. They are not going to post him out of his business if there is any law in the United States whereby such actions can be reached and prosecuted."

BOSTON JEWS SOUGHT FOR WELFARE WORK

Massachusetts Branch Extending Hospitality to All Men in the Service

Boston men are looked forward to in answering the call for workers for overseas service with the American Expeditionary Forces, in France, issued by the Jewish Board for Welfare Work in the United States Army and Navy.

The Massachusetts branch of the board is located at No. 47 Mt. Vernon street and is used as a hospitality centre for men in the service, regardless of race or creed. The local branch has announced that men of the Jewish faith desiring to volunteer for the service must be between the ages of thirty-one and fifty and they will be required to pass a physical examination.

Estimates made by the Jewish Welfare Board show that between 1,000 and 5,000 Jewish boys are in the naval service of the United States. The Board has taken its place with the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C., and other organizations aiding and caring for their needs. It has just completed a canvass of the Navy and has obtained from the commanders of the destroyers, battleships, submarine chasers and other naval ships, and from those in charge of the land stations, statements as to the exact needs, material and spiritual, of the Jewish men in the service.

There are 75,000 Jewish men in the army and navy.

The Board has been in touch with approximately 2,500 men on board ships and naval stations, supplying these men with various forms of recreation and at the same time ministering to their spiritual needs by furnishing these men with prayer books, Bibles and stationery. One Jewish chaplain, David Goldberg, assigned to the U. S. S. Grant, has already been commissioned. Rabbi David Goldstein is the official spiritual guide of the Board at Camp Devens.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker has sent a congratulatory message to Colonel Harry Cutler of Providence, chairman of the Welfare Board, extending congratulations on the work.

Carl Breyfus of Boston, chairman of the State committee, states that it is now necessary to employ field secretaries for the purpose of establishing other branches of the board in this State in view of the increasing number of men to which the board stands ready to minister.

U. S. MILITARY HOSPITAL AT SOUTHAMPTON, ENG.

By International News Service.

London, June 28.—The Red Cross announces that the largest United States military hospital in England will be located near Southampton. It will accommodate 5,000 wounded United States troopers. The site is on a magnificent estate of 188 acres, around an old manor house. The central corridor of the building will be 1,000 feet long.

FIND EMPTY LIFEBOAT AR SOUTH OF THE HOOK

An Atlantic Port, June 28. — An empty lifeboat, found drifting between 200 and 400 miles south of Sandy Hook, was brought into this port today by a Danish bark, arriving from Brazil. Officers of the bark believe the boat formerly belonged to a large steamship, but all marks of identification were obliterated by the weather. The Navy Department has taken over the craft to investigate. When the boat was found a flag of distress was flying and the food compartment was empty.

ARMY OF MACHINISTS TO BE GIVEN FURLOUGHS

Washington, June 28.—Thousands of machinists and skilled mechanics, who have been called into military service and are now in training at cantonments, will be recalled into civilian life and furloughed for an indefinite period, it was learned today, as soon as plans mature which are being worked out jointly by the War Department and the Department of Labor. Increasing industrial projects of the United States, necessary to complete the mighty war organization of the government, have been temporarily delayed at various points through a critical shortage of skilled labor.

ADDED HONOR FOR BLIND GRADUATE AT HARVARD

William C. Plunkett of Washington, D. C., the blind senior who received his A. B. degree this month, has been awarded the James Gordon Bennett prize of $75 in political science at Harvard, donated by the late proprietor of the New York Herald. Plunkett, through the illness of his mother, was unable to take part in the commencement festivities, but his degree, which he gained "cum laude," was mailed to him in Washington, where his father is a retired captain of the United States navy, and in detailed at Washington.

SOUTH BOSTON STARTLED BY A TANK EXPLOSION

One hundred and thirty-three employes of the A. C. Dodge munition plant, Alger street, South Boston, were thrown into a state of great excitement when a compressed air tank exploded with a terrific noise and extinguished the lights of the plant. The explosion was heard for blocks and caused a scare in the Washington Village section.

The only damage to the shop was the shattering of the tank and the blowing out of a few windows. One woman fainted during the excitement and after all was quiet another fainted. Several men sustained slight cuts from falling glass.

Smock island—a new summer resort

SMOCK ISLAND is a beautiful little place, whose bright colors make it resemble a wonderful flower garden, where orchids blend with pinks and rose colors contrast with rich greens.

Smock Island is at Filene's, on the fourth floor. Its inhabitants are all of one race, namely "Smocks."

Smock Island is on the road to Vacation-Land. Nearly every young woman who is headed to Vacation-Land finds in her visit happier by having gone via Smock Island.

There are the famous sleeveless sport coat-smocks in checks that a leading fashion magazine features this month.

There are smocks with the new "blanket-stitching"; there are lovely silk smocks; there is a whole township on the island given over to lavender-shaded smocks including the orchids, besides, of course, the common "garden varieties."

Smock Island is so delightful a little corner that you will want to visit it, even if you do not intend to buy.

NOTE:

On the fifth floor a whole section is given over to sport waists, including smocks and sweaters. This section is as large as many stores give to all kinds of waists and its colors are as bright and pretty as a garden.

LOYALTY WEEK OPENS; CHILDREN'S DAY TOMORROW

Exercises on the Common Mark Real Start of Patriotic Meetings and Pageants.

net street school and march from there to the Common.

Superintendent of Schools Franklin B. Dyer sent notices to the children throughout the city yesterday inviting them to attend the meeting. He expects that at least 2,000 children will attend. They will then have an opportunity of going from the Common to the Charles river basin to be present at the Navy Day sports.

A special program in charge of the Four-Minute speakers is being arranged for Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. on the bandstand on Boston Common. The speakers include William T. A. Fitzgerald, Suffolk County Register of Deeds; General Charles K. Darling and John P. Brennan, former State Senator. Arrangements for this meeting are being made by Mr. Fitzgerald.

SPECIAL ANGELUS.

One of the features will be the recitation in unison of the special Angelus Prayer, as Tuesday has been designated as Angelus Day.

Several thousand copies of the prayer are being printed for distribution to the people attending the meeting.

Today is officially known as "Newspaper Day" and in compliance with the request of Chairman Heath of the Public Safety Committee nearly all the daily newspapers in the city are printing editorials on loyalty. The Boston AMERICAN was glad to comply with Mr. Heath's written request. In another part of the paper the AMERICAN'S editorial will be found. Extracts from the editorials in other Boston papers are herewith printed:

BOSTON EVENING RECORD.

Full speed ahead for Boston's Loyalty Week. No whit different in the fibre, strength and purity of Boston's loyalty today than it was in the stirring epochal days of 1776 when it leaped into immortal fame by blazing the trail for Liberty, Fraternity, Equality!

Time alone has bridged the distance between those days and the present era. Boston men and women are the same today in patriotic spirit and splendid sacrifice as were their ancestors 143 years ago. Garbed in modern attire, attuned to the maelstrom of 20th century civilization, all of Greater Boston today goes on record as demonstrating its 100 per cent. loyalty.

There can be no question of loyalty today. There can be no division of opinion. There can and MUST be but one absorbing and obsessing goal, and that is a community of thought and ideal, a crystallization of energy, resource and sacrifice, never letting up until the Stars and Stripes are triumphantly carried across the Rhine and into the very gates of Berlin.

This week, Loyalty Week, is but a reiteration of the determination of all Americans to make the world safe for democracy and for decent living.

FROM THE ADVERTISER.

In the ceremonies attendant upon the celebration of Loyalty Week today is Newspaper Loyalty Day.

Day after day, hour after hour, the newspaper press demonstrates its loyalty by its utterances. It has about it nothing secretive, nothing reserved or concealed.

The ADVERTISER would be the last newspaper to assert that an attitude of unquestioning support of the administration would be the highest proof of newspaper loyalty.

Suggestion is not necessarily hostile criticism. If the advice proves of sufficient worth to be adopted the proffer of it may prove worth more than regiments.

FROM THE POST.

Loyalty means so many things that we hesitate to write a dissertation on it at this time. And we are not fully convinced that it is needed here in traditionally patriotic Boston, or that any particular week has the essence of loyalty beyond any other week. We hope not, at any rate. Loyalty is a habit with the great and overwhelming majority of our people. And by that is meant the loyalty that loves the flag; that supports the government in war time, heartily and unreservedly; that does not stoop to mean and petty partisan criticism; that looks at the big accomplishment and not the little mistakes; that recognizes the unprecedented, chivalric battle for an ideal that our country and its soldiers are now pledged to carry on to the final triumph, and that is willing and glad to subordinate to the general good self and the calls of self-interest.

FROM THE GLOBE.

No man can have real loyalty of the brain unless he has loyalty of the heart. That means he has faith and courage. He is willing to entrust grave cares and responsibilities to others who have been invested with authority solely by the will of the people. He has faith in America.

These are days when we are being tested, days to which later we will look back and calmly judge our own conduct. If we meet every test and overcome every privation, smother every disloyal temptation and keep our heads clear, we shall look back on these times as ones when we grew in character and worth to true manhood and womanhood.

Official Program of Loyalty Week

The following is the official program for Loyalty Week:

Today.—Newspaper Day—Day on which Boston newspapers print Loyalty editions and editorials.

Saturday, June 29.—Children's Day—Patriotic celebration on Boston Common at 11:30 a. m. Singing of "Star Spangled Banner" and "America" by the children. In addition, children will recite Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and Country. Music by band and other features.

Sunday, June 30.—Church Day—Day on which Boston clergymen have been invited by the committee in charge to preach Loyalty sermons.

Monday, July 1.—Letter Day On this day letters are to be written by residents of Boston to some soldier or sailor in the service.

Tuesday, July 2.—Angelus Day—Special prayer to be recited at noon for victory of the allies. Addresses at Boston Common bandstand, 12.30 p. m. by Four-Minute speakers and recitation of Angelus in unison.

Wednesday, July 3.—Sacrifice Day—Promise to be made on this day by every Bostonian to give up for duration of war some indulgence and spend price of same in war support.

Thursday, July 4.—Neighborhood celebrations with simple patriotic exercises. Gala program on Boston Common, participated in by all races in the evening. Lowering of the colors will be one of the features. Songs and dances will be given by the various groups on a specially erected platform over the Frog Pond.

HARRIS FOUND GUILTY IN AUTO CASE

Given Three to Four Years in Prison—Stay of Sentence Is Granted

Samuel C. Harris, wealthy horseman, was sentenced in the Middlesex Criminal Court to three to four years at hard labor in State prison for receiving stolen property. He was also found guilty on one count of conspiracy to steal. This was filed at the request of the prosecuting attorney.

The verdict was reached after three and one-half hours' deliberation by the jury. The prisoner is reputed to be worth half a million dollars.

In all, twenty-two indictments had been placed against Harris for receiving stolen automobiles and for conspiracy to steal automobiles.

Judge Callahan severely reprimanded the prisoner and complimented the jury on the finding. He said that the verdict was well warranted and that the organization of which the defendant was the head was a menace to the property rights of the community.

2,238 GRADUATE FROM BOSTON HIGH SCHOOLS

Patriotism Marks Closing Day Exercises — 352 Receive Diplomas at Dorchester

Patriotism marked the graduation exercises of nine high schools of Greater Boston.

The diplomas of many boys who are in the service of their country were received by their parents or other representatives.

In all 2,238 received certificates of a four-year high school course. The class of Dorchester High School was the largest of the city, 352 graduates. The Girls' High School graduated 266. The English High's class numbered 256.

At English High School, William M. Blatt of the class of 1858 awarded the Franklin Medals for excellence in studies, and John H. Fitzpatrick of the class of 1873 awarded military diplomas.

The unfurling of the flag featured the program at the South Boston High School.

An exhibition at the close of the literary exercises of the mechanical departments featured the exercises at the Mechanic Arts High School.

"The Flag," borne by Pauline A. Prendergast, Mathilda Cohen and Dorothy D. Johnson, led the Roxbury High School program. Margaret E. Smith made the presentation of the class gift, which was accepted by Miss Marguerite E. Greer, president of the junior class.

Eight Franklin medals were awarded at the High School of Commerce.

FITZGERALD IN RACE FOR SENATE

Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald has decided to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

The former Mayor in tomorrow's issue of the Republic serves notice to Ex-Governor Walsh and other leaders of the Democratic party that he will be a bona fide candidate from the opening gun of the campaign.

The Republic tomorrow will print an editorial, saying in part:

"Now that Governor McCall has announced his candidacy against Senator Weeks, the Democrat pot will begin to boil. Some anxiety has been shown as to the position of former Mayor Fitzgerald on the Senatorial situation and the question is frequently asked, 'Is he a candidate?'

"Of course he will be a candidate. To quit after the confidence shown in him by the electorate two years ago is not John F.'s style.

"At that time when nobody else would make the fight against Senator Lodge he made the run, and received the highest vote ever given to a Massachusetts Democratic candidate for office in Massachusetts."

To Make Hair Wavy and Curly in One Night

Someone has made the discovery that simply applying liquid almerine with a clean tooth brush will actually make straight hair beautifully curly over night. The liquid, which is of course perfectly harmless, has the peculiar property of drying in pretty waves, crimps and ringlets. It also serves as a splendid dressing, keeping the hair delightfully soft and glossy.

A few ounces of liquid almerine, obtainable at any drug store, will keep the hair curly for weeks. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use. It produces a curliness which is the nearest thing to "Nature's own."—Advertisement.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT IN OLEOMARGARINE CASES

Providence, June 28.—Politicians are awaiting the outcome of Federal action July 9 in New York in the case of Colonel Frank W. Tillinghast, a prominent political leader, and others charged with coloring oleomargarine. Tillinghast recently pleaded guilty before Judge Hand, and sentence was postponed till July 9.

The indictments followed a crusade over three years, ago as a result of which two manufacturers served one year and one day each in Cranston prison. Tillinghast for years has acted as secretary of the Republican State Central Committee and is a power in State politics.

SEARS TO MAKE OFFICIAL WAR PHOTOGRAPHS

American's Camera Artist Commissioned and Will Go to Fighting Fronts

"Dick" Sears of the Boston AMERICAN, probably the best-known newspaper photographer in the country, is going to war.

He has received a commission as first lieutenant in the Signal Corps. His duty will be to make photographs and "movies" for the official records of the war. For years Sears has been making pictures of the big things which have happened in New England. Now he's off to make film records of the biggest event in the history of the world.

While, during the last few years, he has continued his work of chronicling in picture form the big events in New England, he has had the war fever. Had he not received his army commission he would have enlisted as a chief petty officer in the navy.

None is better fitted for the task before him than Sears, with his eighteen years of newspaper experience. He was the first regular staff photographer on a Boston newspaper, when he went to work for the old Traveler in 1900. Later he worked on the old Journal, during the Munsey regime.

KNOWS MANY NOTABLE MEN.

In March, 1904, he came to the AMERICAN. He had already made a reputation and knew many of the prominent men of the country personally. Roosevelt, of whom he made many pictures, called him "Dick," by which cognomen he is generally known. His full name is Richard Wellington Sears.

While on the AMERICAN he pulled off many a "scoop." Among his most notable feats was taking the first picture of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, speaking from her balcony. Mrs. Eddy was so pleased with the picture that she gave Sears permission to circulate it throughout the entire country.

When Peary returned from his successful quest of the North Pole, Sears went to Labrador to meet him. The motorboat carrying Sears capsized alongside the steamship Roosevelt. Sears jumped for his life and fortunately landed on the deck of the Roosevelt.

He was one of the first news photographers to make pictures from an airplane. This was at Squantum, when passengers in airplanes had to sit on a tiny seat protruding from the body of the plane. He also made trips in balloons and submarines and in auto races.

COVERED GREAT EVENTS.

There has not been a big fire, a big strike, a big trial in New England in recent years that Sears was not "on the job." He was at Halifax after the disaster, at the Salem fire, at the Lawrence strike. He covered the Eaton trial, the Tucker trial, and many other court events of note.

He knew nearly every baseball of note in recent years. When he began taking pictures of stags of the diamond it was the custom to sit them in chairs and bid them to "look pleasant and don't move." Of recent years "Dick" wouldn't consider taking them unless they were sliding for base with their emotions clearly expressed on their faces.

Besides his work for the AMERICAN he was for a time engaged in taking movies for Hearst's International Film Service. Here, too, he pulled off a number of big "scoops." Six months ago at the request of the AMERICAN he gave up this work to devote himself entirely to taking pictures for the paper.

Sears is married. He looks forward to seeing his two brothers-in-law in France. One is in the medical service and the other in the aviation service.

"I want to thank everyone of my friends for their kindness and courtesy," he said today. "I have taken pictures under pretty trying conditions, but as a rule I have found everyone willing to help me in my work. If I return I hope to be back on the job."

By N. SALLINGER, Exclusively

I handle only clothing that is as well known to the public as it is to me. ASK TRANSFER OF VON RINTELEN FROM PRISON

New York, June 28.—Fear for the physical and mental condition of Franz Von Rintelen has prompted Warden John Hanley, of the Tombs, to request his removal from that prison. Von Rintelen has been convicted on Federal charges and is in the Tombs awaiting trial on others. His health has been failing since Secretary of State Lansing refused to entertain an offer by Germany for his exchange.

The recent reverses of the Austrian army has preyed heavily on his mind, and he has been nervous and irritable. He is steadily losing weight, according to Warden Hanley.

The dates for the horse show and races to be given for the benefit of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross by the Boston Fair Association, Inc., at Readville Park, Readville, have been changed from August 22, 23 and 24, to September 26, 27 and 28.

IRENE FRANKLIN, dainty comedienne, soon going to France to sing for boys in the trenches.

IRENE FRANKLIN TO SING FOR SOLDIERS

Comedienne Going to France With Husband to Entertain Yankee Heroes

Miss Irene Franklin, the American comedienne who is playing as a headliner at Keith's Theatre this week, will soon don a Y. M. C. A. uniform with her husband, Burt Green, who is here with her, and leave for France.

Over there where the American boys are fighting the Huns so hard, she and Mr. Green will offer entertainment and do not expect to return to the United States until next October.

In preparation for their trip across the water, Miss Franklin and Mr. Green have already been inoculated twice. The effects of it handicaps their work somewhat, but it makes no difference, for they are anxious to go "Over There" and give the Sammies a good time.

Upon their arrival in France, Mr. and Mrs. Green will be given a Ford car by the Y. M. C. A. authorities. They will tour the different cantonments and sing some of the latest songs they have written.

"Those boys don't want war songs," said Miss Franklin today. "What they will get from myself and Mr. Green is songs that will make them laugh. They are getting enough war without singing about it to them."

"Generals" Lee and Grant Privates at Devens

Camp Devens, Ayer, June 28.—"Generals" U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee are just ordinary privates in Sergeant Nelson Cox's section of Battery C, 301st Artillery, but they are rapidly becoming about the best known men in the cantonment. Though only privates the other members of their command could not refrain from giving them the title which they both hope to win before the war is over. Grant is a Boston boy, while Lee hails from Lynn. They occupy adjoining bunks.

Corporal Thomas Lynch of Danvers, a member of the same organization, is a descendant of Thomas Lynch of North Carolina, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

BRAVES-DODGER OPENER PUT OVER

By NICK FLATLEY.

The strange role of this weird Summer gave the Boston Braves a chance to rest up for a day, after their four doleful sessions with the New York Giants. Winter weather, damp grounds and other things caused the powers that be to call off this afternoon's opening joust with the Robins and put a double-header on the program for tomorrow.

With the advent of the Brooklyn outfit, things should be a bit softer for the Braves, who haven't given up the ship by any manner of means, though it looks to an unbiased outsider as though the Cubs and the Giants had stolen said ship, hull, spars and canvas.

"Well, we sure must have the losing habit all worked out of our system," declared Manager Stallings, as he gazed sadly at the 10 to 4 figures that represented the fourth straight defeat of the Braves by the Giants.

"We're going to come back, sure pop. We were bad against the Giants, but those things happen in baseball, and we're due for a return to our regular form.

It was a losing day all around for the Haughton hopes. In addition to the ball game, they lost a pretty good outfield. Rehg, Kelly and Powell have been notified to report at the Newport Naval Reserve station within ten days.

This means that three-fourths of the Brave outfield will be playing the bigger game after the Fourth of July.

THREE FLYCHASERS TO GO.

The trio has successfully passed the examination as second-class machinists in the Naval Reserve. Pillingim took the same exam but hasn't heard from it yet. He has a football knee, as well as a spitter and fast ball, it develops, and the club officials are inclined to believe he will be turned down for service.

"The Braves have the stuff, and will prove it again. We came back after the Cubs bumped into us, and what the Giants did, will only make us fight harder. Slumps are like winning streaks. They last, but batting averages and laws and everything else. And losing four in a row is more than the limit for the Braves team this year."

The departure of the three machinists will leave the outer defences of the Tribe in very bad shape. Wickland is like only regular left, and Massey the lone sub. The boss of the outfit has been trying to lasso a few outfielders, but finds it pretty tough.

AFTER NEW TALENT.

"Of course, when we go west, we will have another outfielder," he stated. "That's an absolute necessity. But I don't know who he will be. I have been plugging for weeks trying to find someone, but they're scarce birds this season. The good ones are all signed up, and the United States mint couldn't buy them. But we have another week to work in, and by that time will surely have someone."

And thus optimistically the Miracle Man put aside the dissolution of the best garden brigade he has managed to get together since he took charge of the Boston outfit.

Raoul Lufbery First and Greatest American Ace Was Writing His Autobiography

On May 18th, of the present year, Lufbery had completed four chapters of this Book of His Life.

He had brought down—this wonderful young man—18 German airplanes.

On that morning, he went up to get another Hun, to make his 19th hit—

Only four chapters, but, written by the greatest airman America has produced, important contributions to the Literature of the Great War.

GOSSIP OF GLOVELAND

JOHNNY MUNICE, well-known handler of boxers and quite a batter himself in his day, prepared Frankie (Young) Britt, New Bedford 130 pounder and this section's premier Queensberry workman for all classes, for his recent skirmishes with Johnny Dundee and Young Terry McGovern. Munice likewise served as Britt's chief adviser at both battles and ran Frankie's corner well. Report has it that Britt intends having Johnny handle his affairs, as well as continuing to superintend his training. Britt claims he has parted with Ray Cass, his former manager, for all times.

MUNICE KNOWS the true game from top to bottom, has long been ranked as a splendid trainer and, as Britt is giving a good credit with having him to "right" for both Dundee and McGovern, it looks very much as if they are going to form a partnership.

BIG RALLY TO SAVE SOX

Barrows' Boys Must Get Going Against Senators to Keep in Running

Washington, June 28. The Red Sox, here for five battles with Clark Griffith's Senators, tumbled into second place as a result of dropping the getaway day game in New York.

It was up to them to win today, for with Cleveland trouncing Ty Cobb and his Tiger mates it will put the Barrows third should our athletes be bewhooted.

The [illegible] are now pitching as good ball as a team in the American League. They won 11 games out of 14 on the Red Sox. Lhoos, Leonard, Bush and Boston boys before it was over.

The final battle over in New York was won by the Yankees, 7 to 5. The Sox pummeled Mogridge and Caldwell for seventeen hits, but the bulk of the blows were wasted. Bush and Bader only yielded nine hits, but Hugmen made good use of them.

With Fred Thomas on the disabled list Barrow used Schang on the third corner. Wallie poled three clean ones, as did Hooper and Agnew, while Ruth, Scott and Bush each garnered two. Two of Hooper's pokes went for two bags, while Battering Babe inserted a like wallop. Yes, but the Sox were profligate with their bingles.

HOME RUN FOR BODIE.

Ping Bodie's home run off Bush in the sixth chapter was the real kayo punch, though a wild heave by Shean in the seventh clinched the game for Jack Barry and Co. Two runs, the winning ones came in that canto whereas but for Dave's wild heave off Pratt a goose egg might have been hung up.

Barrow stated this morning that he was hopeful Thomas would be able to get back to the lineup this afternoon. Big Ed worked his pitchers out of turn in New York, in his attempt to stick in first place, 424 at noon he wasn't a bit sure upon his club appointment.

Walter Johnson worked yesterday, blanking the Athletics in the opener. So the Sox won't see him until about Sunday, unless he's shoved in to windup a combat.

Southpaw Harper was Griff's first pick for slab duty today.

BIG SPORT CARNIVAL FOR G. E. FIELD DAY

With the hope of having good weather tomorrow the General Electric will hold their tenth annual outing at Brockside Park, Peabody.

All is in readiness for the affair, which promises to be one of the best ever held. The athletic events include 100-yard dash, one-mile run, 440-yard run, 220-yard dash, five-mile run, running high jump, running broad jump and special military relay race.

The Fore River soccer team will meet the General Electric team, while the William F. Brophys will play one of the teams from Camp Devens.

DUTCH LEONARD IS ANXIOUS TO DON KHAKI

By H. W. LANIGAN.

Hubert (Dutch) Leonard, one of the old reliables of the Red Sox hurling staff, who has been on the job at the Fore River shipbuilding plant all week, has applied for admission in the reserve officers' training school.

Leonard has just received official notice from his draft board at Fresno, Cal., that he has been moved into Class 1A of the draft. His old rating was Class 4.

"At the time I arranged to go to Fore River I was in Class 4; did not know anything about my new classification," states Leonard. "Now that my draft board has informed me of my advancement to Class 1, I am trying to secure admission in the reserve officers' training school.

"I have asked my draft board for permission to make that step. If it is denied me, it's Dutch for the Army. Anyhow, the baseball fans can rest assured that I'm no slacker and did not duck over to Fore River because I wanted to dodge army duty.

"I hope I land in the Reserve Officers' school, but if I don't I'll don the khaki. I'm not at Fore River to pitch ball. I'm doing my bit at the yard; on the job building ships every day."

Jack Gillis, classy catcher of the Medford High champions, has been elected captain of next year's nine.

Corbett's Corner

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Nick Altrock's comeback as a major league hurler, after more than nine years, has just awakened fans of the present generation to the fact that Nick once upon a time was more than a baseball comedian.

From 1903 until 1909 Nick ranked as one of the greatest twirlers in the game. It was his masterly pitching, together with that of Ed Walsh and Doc White, that enabled the White Sox of 1906 to sip through to world championship heights.

"I'm forty-two now—and that's pretty old for a baseballer," said Nick the other night. "But that old soupee of mine isn't quite gone yet.

"You know I never depended upon a fast ball when I was at my best. Some teasers and a little noodle work—that's how I turned the trick.

"If I had been a fast ball boy with a wing tuned up for the fast ones why, I guess there wouldn't be any hope for me. But this old soupee still got a little speed in it, and I let it mix on a little curve now and then to help out the hops in the fight for the pennant until Clarke's pitching staff gets all patched up."

HOW NICK MADE COMEBACK.

Nick, telling of his comeback, said:

"When we landed in Detroit, Griff only had four pitchers and before the series was over he had used 'em all up.

"That put Griff in a hole. He didn't know what to do right then until he happened to look at me. Then he remembered that I was a pitcher—once. So he said to me:

"'Nick, can you pitch a game for me?'

"'Sure,' I answered, 'guess this old southpaw is pretty good yet.'

"And so Griff stuck me in against Ty Cobb and all the other Tigers. And, by gosh, I won that game."

Nick went from Milwaukee in 1903 to the Red Sox. Almost as soon as he reported he was stricken with illness. He didn't recover until mid-summer of 1903.

Then Jimmy Collins shoved him in against the White Sox and they promptly batted him for eight runs in the first inning. That was enough for Jimmy and he presented Nick to the White Sox, which, just then, were in great need of twirlers.

SHORT STAY WITH RED SOX.

He remained with the Sox until 1909 and then was traded to Washington. He pitched only a few games with that team and was shunted off to the minors on the same day Smoke Pitched and won a 4 to 3 game from the White Sox.

After a season or so with Minneapolis, Nick went to Kansas City, and remained there until 1913 when Manager Charlie Carr released him unconditionally.

"Two day later I got a telegram from Clarke Griffith offering me a job with the Senators—and I sure did grab it," said Nick.

I reported to the club in Cleveland. The day afterward the club went up against the pitching of Jean Gregg who was at his very best just then. Our boys hadn't even fouled the ball for four innings and the nine of them got a scratch single. Just then Griff looked at me and said:

"'Say, what did I hire you for anyway?'

"'Dated if I know,' I answered, 'but I'm tell you right now that I'll be sure my pay by batting is this ball game if you'll let me.'

"Griff looked at me funny like and said:

"'That's the idea!'

"'Let me coach on third,' I said. Clark agreed.

TOOK FUNNY FOR GREGG.

"I hustled out to the third base like and no sooner had I got to the pitcher's box then I began to do some shadow boxing just as I had seen Johnny Kilbane do in the movies.

"In about ten seconds the players on both teams and the crowd, no, I began to look at me. I guess I was a sight. I was a sight.

"When Jean Gregg got a squint at me he nearly died laughing. He actually did laugh so hard that he fell down on the mound. And all the while I was boxing faster and faster trying to get Gregg's goat.

"Well, finally I got sort of tired and then I knocked out this ordinary guy I was boxing against him and then the game was on.

"But Gregg was gone. The stunt had hit his funny bone and knocked all the pitching out of him. Before the inning ended we had scored four runs and clinched the game.

"After it was over, Griff said to me:

"'Your job from now on is that of comedian.'

"And that's how I became a comedy guy."

Filene's MEN'S SHOPS

NOTE: Open all day Saturday, 8:30 to 5:30

The old time greeting
when our friends met us on the street was "What do you think of the Braves?" or "How's business?" But times have changed

Now they ask us with a worried note in their voice: "How much does a fellow have to pay for a suit that's fit to wear?" And the strange part of it is that these self same men assume that, without bothering to investigate, good clothes at moderate prices have passed out everywhere!

Men's new suits, $25

that will open your eyes as to how far a dollar still goes

Blue and green checked suits that are things of beauty and joy forever.

New striped suits in brown, gray and blue.

New dark oxford suits with silk sleeve linings, for men above the draft age.

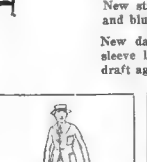
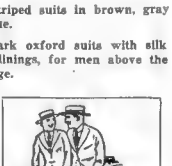
Basket weave suits in gray, green or blue overplaids in worsted effects, that will almost wear forever. Models conservative enough for Mr. Average-Man above the draft age.

Suits in soft, rich fabrics of the heather family and in stripes; good suits for young men, and older men who want clothes with snap to them.



Flanalyte suits, $15 and $16.50
Light - weight, vestless summer suits (60 per cent. wool, 40 per cent. cotton). Made to look like homespuns, worsteds, cheviots; made and tailored like winter suits, but so cool, so light weight you'll think you're wearing a Palm Beach.



Stein-Bloch suits, $35
They stand out ahead of the crowd. Real economy to wear good clothes and to buy a Stein-Bloch. We recommend Stein-Bloch suits because they are consistently the best clothes we know.

White flannel trousers, $6.50
Even on the cold days last week we were selling them. REASON? Men have compared and seen that it pays to get these for three reasons: (1) Right color, (2) Non-transparent, (3) Well tailored.
Sport coats, $19 and $12.

Palm Beach Suits, $12.50 and $15
The Filene improved Palm Beach suits though a vast improvement over the old styles are only $12.50 Palm Beach golf suits, $15

"I love you," muttered Waverly. "Fay, I love you!"

But Fay swept across the room to the outer door and, [illegible] smooth, cool voice, "That will [illegible] dear."

Best Way to Show Patriotism, Declares Prominent Auto Dealer

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

A. J. Shorey, manager of the New England Velie Company and a director of the New England Kissel Company, has just returned from an extended trip through the largest cities of the Central West to study manufacturing conditions, and offers some suggestions for merchandising goods under the present conditions. Mr. Shorey states that about the most patriotic thing all of us can do, who are not actively identified in government work, is to buckle down and keep business going at top notch.

Mr. Shorey suggests that one possible mistake is being made by trying to cover too much territory in our sales campaigns instead of concentrating here in New England. He cites instances of "tissue paper distribution" as against concentrated business. He goes on to say:

"Regardless of the war, and regardless of any temporary restrictions, business is bound eventually to readjust itself on a basis, both sound and economical. The safest and most logical initial step toward the solution of the problem today confronting New England manufacturers is the development of their home market—to build their New England distribution to the maximum of its possibilities. In this connection, remember that the embargoes work both ways, while New England goods may be excluded from outside territories by embargoes, at the same time, outside goods are excluded from the New England territory by the same embargoes. This gives the New England manufacturers the advantage in New England over all their outside competitors.

"Let us take a specific example and suppose that we manufacture cook stoves. There are about 1500 manufacturers of cook stoves in the United States—only six or seven of these being located in New England. If we try to sell our cook stoves all over the country, we are competing with 1599 other concerns making a similar product. If we concentrate in New England the number of our competitors reduces itself to six or seven, because only six manufacturers find it just as hard to get into New England as we find it to get out. If embargoes interfere seriously with our transportation facilities inside New England, the distances are not too long for us to use trucks to solve our 'transporta' on problems.

"New England has a concentrated population of approximately 7,000,000 people, we have approximately 2,000 shoe stores, 5,000 drug stores, 1,000 hardware stores, etc. The average retail volume in New England, figuring on a basis of population, caters to 32 per cent more people than the average retail store all over the United States. You can reach by the use of motor trucks in New England these 7,000,000 possible consumers at a cost which compares favorably with the cost of reaching the same number of people through national distribution by express or freight. You can reach the 2,000 or 5,000 dealers supplying these 7,000,000 people at a lesser cost and more effectively than you can reach from 25,000 to 50,000 dealers supplying people all over the United States."

GRANITE STATE CALLING FOR FARM HELP

By THOMAS F. PHELAN,
United States Farm Labor Agent.

There is a farm labor famine in New Hampshire.

Farmers have just awakened to that fact, and are sending out calls for help. The AMERICAN Farm Labor Bureau at the office of the United States Employment Service, No. 84 Canal street, Boston, is anxious to help them secure competent farm hands. This is the chance of a lifetime for men who want to get into the country and build up their health.

Men who feel that they want to work on a farm during the Summer months ought to register at once at the Canal street office.

Here is a request from Frank J. Beal of Plymouth, New Hampshire, to the AMERICAN to round up farm help. Mr. Ball is labor examiner for the United States Employment Service in that State.

"My dear Mr. Phelan—Farm help is very scarce in this vicinity (Plymouth, N. H.) and has been for the last two months, and it looks now, as the haying season is approaching, that many acres will remain uncut unless help can be procured.

"Will it be possible for you to secure some men to help out the situation in this vicinity, Plymouth, N. H.? If you cannot secure the men, could you send me some boys old enough to help out in this work?"

Applicants should address Mr. Beal at his office in Plymouth, N. H. He will give information as to railroad fare, wages, etc.

The attention of farmers in Massachusetts is directed to the food saving drive of the National War Garden Commission. This drive has started every woman in the State to putting up vegetables for Winter.

All of them are determined to get some of the $10,000 which the Commission is offering as prizes for the best canned vegetables grown in war gardens. Prizes will be awarded in thrift stamps, with a National Capitol Prize Certificate.

The demand for canning manuals is unprecedented. Two hundred of the Commission's canning and drying booklets have just been mailed to Albert R. Jenks, special agent, Food Administration, Boston; and L. W. Jackson, also of the Food Administration, has received 300. Victor A. Heath, chairman of Boston's Committee on Public Safety, is giving out 500; and Thomas P. Dooley, department of manual arts of the Boston schools, has distributed 500.

JURY COMMISSIONER OBJECTS TO QUARTERS

Providence, June 28.—The assignment of the jury commissioner to a "closet" in the Providence County Court House, adjacent to the office of the Attorney-General, has started a family row at the court house, where, it is claimed, Jacob A. Eaton, the commissioner, is obliged to transact business in a "closet" while deputy sheriffs are provided with a carpeted room for lounging purposes.

Eaton is said to have started the rumpus by declaring he would have to order a "wooden Indiana" unless he was given quarters in which he can move around and in which fresh air would be allowed to percolate. Witnesses before the grand jury are obliged to lounge about the corridors, it is claimed.

'ALL NATIONS' IN CELEBRATION OF FOURTH

Demonstration on Common at Night Will Be Boston's Response to President

Impressive ceremonies have been arranged by the city for the observance of Independence Day, next Thursday. Most of the celebration will take place on the Common, where, from the time Mayor Peters raises the Stars and Stripes at 9 a. m., until late at night, there will be something going on to interest the public.

A feature of the day's observance will be the participation therein of the foreign groups of Boston. This will be Boston's response to President Wilson's request that the foreign groups be encouraged to take part in the Fourth of July celebration. At least thousands will take part in the program. From a stage built in the middle of the Frog Pond groups will sing their national songs and dance their traditional dances.

There will also be the sunset ceremony of "evening colors." The military review on the Common parade ground. It will be preceded by a short parade of representative groups of men, women and children of foreign birth or descent.

National organizations will parade in various sections of the city early in the evening and will assemble in the vicinity of Park square at 7 p. m. Here Chief Marshal J. J. Sullivan, of the State Guard, and his staff will head the procession to the Common, escorted by the U. S. Army battalion which will, on arrival at the Common, give the ceremony of "evening colors" and the military review.

There will be a public meeting at Faneuil Hall at 10:30 a. m. for Americanization and the delivery of the annual patriotic oration. Morning flag-raisings in various sections of the city with patriotic exercises have been arranged.

"Mon Vieux, Prends du Fer Nuxate"

This is what you hear "Over There." Even in France they say

"Take Nuxated Iron Old Pal"

As a tonic, strength and blood builder probably no remedy has ever met with such phenomenal success as has Nuxated Iron. Dr. Sheffield conservatively estimated that over three million persons annually are using it in this country alone. It has been highly endorsed also by former Presidential Candidate Hon. Charles E. Hughes, former Cabinet Official Judge Alton B. Parker, Judge Alton B. Parker, Supreme Court of Claims, Commissioner of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Washington, United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation, formerly Chief Justice of the International Court, Samoa, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, former Governor Richard Rolland Kenney of Delaware, at present Assistant Attorney-General U. S. Army, General Advocate General U. S. Army, Dr. Bruno John L. Clein (Retired), the druggist boy of Shiloh, who was Surgeon in the U. S. Army when only twelve years of age, Surgeon David Stuart Goodwin (Retired), head of the battle of Gettysburg, physician to Presidents and thousands of well-known who have been recommended in hospitals have prescribed and recommended it. Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of Chicago says it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician.

Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago and former Surgeon Sergeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, says Nuxated Iron has proven through his own tests of it to be a great tonic. He has ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders.

Dr. Alfred Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital, says there are thousands of men and women who are pale, weak and blood builder but do not know what to take. In his opinion there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for enriching the blood and helping to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the test. See how much how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired after taking two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE: Nuxated Iron which was used by former members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, and other prominent people with such splendid results, is not a secret remedy, but is recommended above by physicians in the strongest terms. It is one of the well known iron products which can be obtained from druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black and does not upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron guarantees successful and entirely satisfactory results or every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

DRAFTEES FROM VERMONT DUE AT DEVENS

With New Hampshire Late Comers They Complete New England Contingent

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, June 28.—The four hundred draftees from Vermont and the selectives from New Hampshire who failed to arrive on schedule were due to reach here today and many of them will probably be sent into barracks vacated by the "Deadwood service only" men who have been transferred to Fort Adams at Newport, R. I., as part of the new U. S. guard.

Major Ralph Lowell, son of President Lowell of Harvard and one of the instructors at both the third and fourth officers' training camps, has been placed in charge of the development battalion of the depot brigade; several of the other instructors at the training camp, including Lieutenant William H. Rumpf, assistant adjutant, have received assignments either in the Seventy-sixth division or the depot brigade.

TO INSTRUCT SCHOOLBOYS.

Fifteen commissioned officers at this camp, including a number of them from the 76th Division, have been asked to instruct the drafted men enrolled at the Tech High School at Rutland, N. Y., and the Central High School at Troy, N. Y. The men who are going to Buffalo include Captain Harold E. Power, First Lieutenants John W. Mott and Emmons H. Farar and Second Lieutenants Edward F. Collins and Robert C. Winton of the Boston Regiment; First Lieutenants Ransom E. Wilson and Gregory Jones and Second Lieutenants Harold D. Newton of the New York Regiment; First Lieutenant Abraham J. Somers and Second Lieutenants Wallace W. Webber, George A. Cormey and Allen Leland of the Connecticut Regiment, and First Lieutenant Clyde W. Calring of the Depot Brigade.

Captain Gustave J. Lake of the 301st Infantry and First Lieutenant Charles J. Sweeney and Second Lieutenant Rodney L. Douglas of the Depot Brigade are going to Troy.

CIRCUS CLOWN AT CAMP.

Among the new draftees from Maine is Joseph Newman, a circus clown, who has traveled around the world. He registered at Gardiner, Me., and came in a day late. He is now a member of the 45th Company of the Depot Brigade and will have to wait for service off the ship before they could have a chance to give exhibitions of their skill.

The ship lost a past grand master of the art of handling boxers and getting them into shape for the ring when "Abe" Aronberg was transferred to Chatham, where he is to have charge of athletics among the navy men at that station.

A landsman on board the ship—and one does occasionally get on board—suggested a find abundant amusement of a kind that will beat anything that the movies or the funmakers have to offer in the petty officers' quarters during recreation hours.

TUNNEL BRINGS DORCHESTER NEARER

Quicker Transit for Many Patrons of "L" With Andrew Square Opening

The Andrew square terminal of the Dorchester tunnel will be open to public travel tomorrow and trains will run from Andrew square through the tunnel to Park street and Harvard square.

The running time from Andrew square to Washington station will be five minutes. The new service will provide the best route between Dorchester and the business district and passengers will find the trip can be made more quickly by the use of this route than by connection t Dudley street with the Elevated trains.

The extension to Andrew square will relieve the congestion at the Broadway station and will make a marked improvement over conditions that now exist. There will a comparatively few changes on to surface lines except that most of the surface cars now running from Andrew square to Broadway will terminate at Andrew square.

The Neponset line will be operated to Andrew square, instead of to Dudley street, and a new line will be operated from Field's Corner to dudley street, passing the Fenway and Egleston square-Eglesion square line will be operated to Dudley street termini, and from Dudley street line. A shuttle line will be operated between Andrew square and Broadway station the Broadway avenue.

The Dorchester street-Field's Corner line will be discontinued, and the Essex street and Federal street lines, now operated to Dorchester street, will be extended to E. street. The South Boston lines will again use the lower level station at Broadway.

The entire Dorchester and South Boston districts will be affected to a greater or less extent by the opening of the station. The company has distributed copies of a map and table showing all of the surface lines and their connections with the rapid transit stations at Andrew square, Egleston square and Dudley street stations as they will be operated in the territory east of Washington street.

VICE ADMIRAL ALLENBY VISITS NAVY YARD

Admiral Allenby visited the Charlestown Navy Yard and was taken to the old frigate Constitution, on his request, being shown over the ship by Captain Rush.

DR. HOMER IS FOUND GUILTY IN GEM CASE

Is Committed to Jail in Default of $15,000 Bail—Sentence Is Postponed

Dr. Joseph Homer of Los Angeles, Cal., is now an inmate of the Charles street jail, to which he was committed after a jury in the Superior Criminal Court had found him guilty of robbing Mrs. Madge E. Wilbur of jewels valued at $17,500 at the Hotel Touraine on the afternoon of May 12, 1917.

Dr. Homer smiled after the verdict had been announced, and as he was unable to comply with an order of the court that he furnish $15,000 bail for the future disposition of the case, he went to jail. Before the verdict he had been at liberty on $5,000 bail, for forty-six out of the forty-eight hours.

The penalty for the crime of which Dr. Homer was found guilty may be life imprisonment.

During the progress of the trial counsel for Dr. Homer took numerous exceptions, which will go before the Supreme Court for final disposition. An affirmation of these exceptions will require considerable time, Judge Lawton gave John T. Hughes, counsel for Dr. Homer, until September 23 to prepare his bill of exceptions.

Before the case goes to the Supreme Court it is probable that sentence may be imposed upon Dr. Homer and then stayed until after the Court has passed upon the questions of law which will be presented to that tribunal.

NAVAL AVIATORS ARRIVE AT PIER

Will Spend a Few Weeks on Ship Before Going to Harvard

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, June 28.—Another draft of naval aviators has arrived aboard the ship and been placed in charge of Ensign Rollins in training in the Commonwealth and another group have acquired a few of the rudiments of the art of flying and will be sent to the Cambridge Receiving Ship to obtain instruction in the rudiments of aerial navigation. Text book studies there will relate wholly to the technical and theoretical side of flying. When the course is completed the men will be sent to one of the naval schools where they will be equipped for actual work in the air.

The ship has had a wrestling season on the mat since the middle of the month of June. The gloves have already been stored away for the duration of the war, and the wrestling mat rolled up and put into summer quarters. It has been a very successful season, despite the fact that a number of promising matches that it had been hoped could be pulled off have been postponed because the men who were scheduled to take part have been ordered for service off the ship before they could have a chance to give exhibitions of their skill.

The ship lost a past grand master of the art of handling boxers and getting them into shape for the ring when "Abe" Aronberg was transferred to Chatham, where he is to have charge of athletics among the navy men at that station.

A landsman on board the ship—and one does occasionally get on board—suggested a find abundant amusement of a kind that will beat anything that the movies or the funmakers have to offer in the petty officers' quarters during recreation hours.

Why Every Man, Woman and Child in New England Should Help to Make the Message of LOYALTY WEEK a Clarion Call to the World

Today is the first of the seven days set apart by the Boston Committee on the Public Safety as Loyalty Week, to be devoted by the people of Greater Boston to special demonstrations of their loyalty to the flag and the national administration, and of their unreserved readiness to devote their property and their lives if need be to the successful prosecution of the war.

At first thought, such an appeal to the people of Boston, or indeed of any American community large or small, seems almost a superfluity. Never since we were a nation have we been involved in a war in which public opinion has rallied so staunchly and so unanimously to the support of the nation's policy and of the nation's Commander-in-Chief.

The Revolution itself had its tories, the War of 1812 its British sympathizers, the Mexican War its anti-slavery protestants, the Civil War its copperheads, the Spanish War its anti-imperialists—all of them strong and active minorities working publicly and in secret to weaken the arm of the nation and defeat the objects which the majority had in view. But the reluctant entry of the United States into this present war was so free from any taint or suspicion of selfishness, the cause of human rights for which we are contending is so dear to every American heart, that by the great mass of the people all minor differences of party, creed and racial prejudice have been forgotten in an ardent uprising of national spirit: an uprising so ardent and so unanimous that the few unscrupulous politicians who for personal ends have attempted to influence partisan feeling against the administration have shrunk back aghast, and are now loud in praises of the President and of those of his advisers whose services they were belittling and whose motives they were aspersing a few weeks ago.

It is not quite enough, however, that this wonderful and splendid unanimity in loyal devotion to the nation's cause should EXIST in the hearts of the people. IT IS IMPORTANT ALSO THAT IT SHOULD BE KEPT PROMINENTLY AND UNMISTAKABLY IN THE PUBLIC VIEW, for in no other way can the common, every day citizen so effectively hold up the hands of the nation's leaders and so effectively discourage the nation's foes. We Americans are too undemonstrative in the common relations of life, too apt to postpone our floral offerings for coffin ornaments and to reserve our words of appreciation for the monuments of our private friends and our public servants.

Let us all for this one week wear our hearts upon our sleeves, and show to our neighbors and to the world the passionate devotion to the cause of liberty and the resolute purpose to defend it that we really feel.

Paper Worth Its Weight in Gold

An Inspiration, Education, Agent of Victory Now, Foundation of Wise Living Hereafter—THE THRIFT STAMP.

By the flickering fire in his smoky cave after the hunt, primitive man chipped the flint to a sharp point, fastened it to the wooden shaft with the sinews of animals. That was THRIFT. Next day he was ready for the savage beast and for victory in the fight.

Primitive woman captured and tamed the fawn and the calf of the wild aurochs. That was THRIFT. When the winter and deep snow came she had meat for her children; later from the thrift that tamed the wild calf came all the herds that feed and clothe the world today.

Thrift is the cornerstone of happiness, thrift means self-control, and control of SELF means control of others, control of the future, control of anxiety and fear.

THIS IS THRIFT DAY, set apart for the greatest demonstration of thrift that the world has ever witnessed or could witness.

When you obey the President's injunctions and put your money, the result of your labor, in the government's thrift stamps you sharpen your government's weapons.

When you teach your children the value of thrift, when you plant in their young minds the habit of saving part of each dollar that there may be plenty later, you lay the foundation stone of their future happiness and independence.

Tell your children what the thrift stamp means. Every dollar is spent in the holy cause of a just war, and at the same time every dollar is saved to help later in the war against poverty and anxiety—a war that old age knows too well.

Tell your children as you encourage them to save and buy the stamps, "Money is not precious for ITSELF. It is precious only for what it can do, for the good that it can do. The evil it holds in check."

Explain to your children that the difference between poverty and financial independence is the difference between freedom and slavery.

Tell them that the man who has no money of his own must take orders of him that HAS money. And explain to them that while youth laughs at poverty old age weeps bitter tears over it.

To your very young children, as you give to each the little book of stamps, explain the matter simply. Say to them: "Today the money for these stamps helps the good soldiers in France. And later, with that same money, you will buy presents for your mother, for your brothers and sisters."

No matter how young they are make them understand that because part has been saved and put away happiness and usefulness are coming later.

To those that are older explain more widely the thought of thrift, patriotic and unselfish, individual and collective.

Nature practices thrift even in her apparent lavishness.

Every leaf that falls from the tree goes to make up the rich loam out of which trees better and stronger grow as the centuries pass.

Every good deed adds to the character and dignity of man. That is nature's thrift working to build up a better race.

Every dollar saved by self-control is another blow of the hammer stuck in forging strong, self-reliant character.

Above all, emphasize in your conversation and in your own thought THRIFT AS A PATRIOTIC DUTY.

The government has made it possible for every man and woman and for every child to possess the proof of willingness and desire to serve the government at war. It should not be possible to find any man or woman without that proof to show.

Buy your thrift stamps, show them to the family. Point out the picture of George Washington in the middle of the stamp. Remind the young people that wealth honestly acquired is most honorable. It represents ability, worth and self-denial. Tell them that the sum of Five Dollars is more than the amount that many a man has had as the foundation of a great success and fortune.

The idea of government in instituting this admirable form of investment is not so much to obtain funds for the war on which every man's happiness depends as to establish the HABIT of wise economy, the THRIFT that will increase the Nation's efficiency.

In faithful service what counts is INTENTION, the fact that you have done all you could.

The poor widow who gave her mite deserved the immortal fame instantly conferred upon her. For she had given all that she had. Much or little, do all that you can, as often as you can, and you deserve your Nation's gratitude.

If you respect your wife translate part of that respect into thrift stamps today.

If you revere your father and mother prove it with thrift stamp investment to reflect your good bringing up.

If you love your children make each one of them the owner

Women Are Not Husbands' Chattels Today—The Old Law of Property No Longer Obtains and the Wife Is in No Sense a Dependent, Still Less a Slave

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"Dear Mrs. Woodrow:

"Will you help me in the heart-breaking predicament in which I find myself? Do not refuse to do so, for you are the only person to whom I can turn.

"I am the mother of two little children. My husband is a prosperous business man, well thought of in the community, but he is a different person in the home. I have known nothing but abuse and ill-treatment since my marriage. I am not allowed a cent of money. He never speaks to me that he does not use profane and disgusting language, and he frequently threatens to kill me. I am allowed only the most formal acquaintanceship with people, as he is afraid I might tell how I am treated, and he often goes for weeks without speaking a word to me, although we sit at the same table three times a day.

"If there were only myself I should leave him and earn my own living. But I must think of my little ones first.

"I am broken down in health and spirit, and the doctor says he cannot understand what has come over me since I have been married. I cannot tell him—I am too proud.

"My family does not know anything of this, as I have kept my sorrows to myself. It would break my mother's heart. She is such a gentle, honest soul, and the disgrace would half kill her.

"But what can I do? How can I bring my children up in such a home? HEARTBROKEN."

I WONDER when women will fully realize that they are not property. The old law in which a wife was held a chattel no longer obtains. Marriage should be an equal partnership.

A wife is in no sense a dependent, still less a slave.

The truth is, my dear lady, that your own mental attitude toward this matter is not right. Like the vast majority of women, and men, too, for that matter, you view any question which closely affects yourself emotionally and not reasonably. You are thinking with your heart and not with your brain, and that always leads to confusion. You are not just to yourself; then how can you be just to others? You would not countenance cruelty to your children. If that were attempted you would probably flame like a tigress. Then why should you countenance cruelty to yourself, or submit to it?

Your weakness is the pride which has led you to conceal even from those nearest to you the circumstances of your wretched existence, and your husband, who is a vicious tyrant, delighting in tormenting someone whom he considers unable to retaliate or to bring him to book, takes advantage of this weakness in your character. He banks on it. It gives him the opportunity to gratify his degenerate impulses.

There are no doubt a great many persons who would say that you showed only a proper dignity and reserve in shielding him from the censure of your family and friends. But there are better things in life for you than the pose of a silent sufferer.

Don't think of yourself so sentimentally and speak of yourself as broken in heart and spirit. We can all of us stand considerably more than we like to think we can. Regard yourself, instead, as an individual with inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. This is an occasion for all of the common sense that you possess.

Insist on having a plain talk with your husband. Say to him: "I am not going to be drawn into any argument, neither is there any use in going over all my faults and failings. We will simply face the facts; anything else is a side issue, not worth discussing. We do not live together harmoniously. I refuse to remain longer in the atmosphere that prevails in our home, or to bring up our children in it.

"If you wish to take the matter into the courts I am perfectly willing to have you do so, and would really prefer it. In any event, you will have to provide properly for the children. I do not care who knows the circumstances which have forced me to this step, and I am now fully and finally determined to do the best I can for myself and the children."

A tyrant is always a coward. Take this attitude. Mean what you say and be determined to stand by it. And you will probably have a very different home life from the one which you are now "enjoying."

CIVILIANS MUST BOW TO WAR NEEDS

By F. B. Anderson, Banker

WHEN Congress appropriated $20,000,000,000 for the first year of the war it, consciously or unconsciously, appropriated the labor and services of all the people of the United States—not $20,000,000,000, but raw material and the labor to turn that raw material into the finished product needed in the prosecution of the war.

The production of the country before it entered into the war was approximately $40,000,000,000. The consumption approximately $35,000,000,000, the excess approximately $5,000,000,000. Consequently the ability to make good the appropriations of Congress requires increased production or decreased consumption, or both, that would raise the surplus from the normal $5,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000.

The plans and activities of the administration will fail or be delayed to the extent that the population fails to bring the surplus of production over consumption to the basis demanded by Congress; and neither Liberty Bond issues, War Savings Stamps, nor taxation can solve the problem, for the reason that money is of no avail if the population consumes what the government needs to carry on the war.

We must teach the people that every act and every expenditure of each individual has a good or bad effect on the winning of the war; that to the extent that each individual fails to deliver as full a day's work as he is capable of he is working against the army in the field and aiding the Kaiser, and to the extent that he fails to respond to the government's demand for conservation of those things that are needed for the army and allies he is giving aid and comfort to the enemy and is creating the conditions and causing the delays for which he is criticizing the administration.

The great purchasing power of the country is not in the hands of the comparatively few rich men, but in the hands of the great mass of workers.

ADVICE GIVEN GIRL-WIFE MAY AID YOU

By Winifred Black

A YOUNG woman, twenty years old, writes to me and tells me a story that makes every drop of blood in my veins boil with indignation.

She has been married for four years, and her husband has never supported her for a day. She has a little baby and her husband abuses the baby and her. He will not work, and says quite plainly that he never intends to work as long as she is strong enough to support all three of them. When she tries to get him to find something to do, he beats and abuses her and beats and torments the baby, and when she cries about it and swears that she will stand it no longer the man says he will have her arrested and put in an insane asylum.

And the poor little foolish, frightened thing believes everything he says and lives on in drudgery and torment, and fear and shameful humiliation.

It's Easy Enough

How can women be so easily deceived? In the first place, my dear little woman, don't you know that if this man runs away from you, you can have him arrested and put in jail for failure to provide? And don't you know that if you take your child and go to any police court in the country any judge in the country will have him arrested and locked up for abusing you? And don't you know that there isn't a State in the Union, except one, I'm told, where you would be forced to live with such a man for one day ✱ one hour or one minute?

Go to the nearest domestic relations court or to the nearest justice of peace or to the nearest police officer for that matter, or if you don't like any of these proceedings, go to the nearest church and ask for the priest or minister and tell him your troubles.
